

2023 ANNUAL HISTORIC PRESERVATION AWARDS

The Steamer Nenana is the last remaining sternwheeler in Alaska and is believed to be the last of her kind in the United States.

Preservation Alaska (dba Alaska Association for Historic Preservation) seeks nominations for its Fifteenth Annual Historic Preservation Award honoring excellence in historic preservation throughout Alaska.

2023 ANNUAL HISTORIC PRESERVATION AWARDS

Preservation Alaska (dba Alaska Association for Historic Preservation) seeks nominations for its Fifteenth Annual Historic Preservation Award honoring excellence in historic preservation throughout Alaska.

The purpose of the Historic Preservation Award recognizes significant contributions to the preservation of Alaska's historic resources and to recognize a project, organization, agency, or individual who exemplify the highest standards among Alaska preservation. The awards are open to projects completed within the last 25 years. Nominations are reviewed by the Preservation Awards Committee. Awards are presented at annual meeting held the first Thursday of November.

For clarification or inquiries, please contact Preservation Alaska at 907.929.9870 or via email at AKpreservation@gmail.com

AREAS OF EXCELLENCE EXAMPLES

1. Lifetime Achievement

Includes individuals who have demonstrated a lifetime commitment to historic preservation and whose vision and activities have significantly impacted preservation in Alaska.

2. Robert Mitchell Historic Preservation Architect Award

Robert Mitchell

This award is in memory of Robert Mitchell, long-time board member of Preservation Alaska and his work as an historic preservation architect. Bob was presented the Historic Preservation Award for Lifetime Achievement in 2015, in honor of his outstanding service to the field of historic preservation and architecture over the years. With two university degrees (one in architecture from University of Pennsylvania), Bob opened an architectural practice in Montana in 1961. In 1975, he became a Design Manager for the Alaska Department of Public Works, then transferred to the Alaska State Historic Preservation Office (SHPO). After that, Bob spent ten years working for the North Dakota SHPO. After returning to Alaska, he remained active in historic preservation.

Bob joined the AAHP Board in 2005 and helped to found Friends of Nike Site Summit in 2007. Playing a major role in both organizations, Bob was always hands on with the restoration work at Nike Site Summit, and his knowledge, expertise, and enthusiasm made him an invaluable AAHP board member. With his career spanning almost six decades, we salute his lifetime personal commitment and achievements in historic preservation by creating this special award for architects specializing in historic preservation.

For award nomination criteria please see page 5.

3. Adaptive Use, Stabilization, Renovation, and Restoration Projects

Includes historic buildings and archaeological/historic sites that have been successfully stabilized, renovated, restored or adapted for a new use within the past five years. Residential, commercial, civic, cultural, and religious projects considered. Prior projects, up to 25 years old, may be considered at the discretion of the awards jury. Projects must be complete and still being used in order to be eligible.

4. Stewardship Award

The Stewardship Award recognizes those who have ensured the preservation of historic properties through long-term care and maintenance, stabilization, protection, or continuous family ownership.

“At its best, preservation engages the past in a conversation with the present over a mutual concern for the future. – William Murtagh

A. Property Owners

Includes property owners who exemplify the value of stewardship by preserving the historic character of an historic building or archaeological/historic site over time through regular and appropriate maintenance. Residential, commercial, civic, cultural, and religious properties are considered.

B. Organizations

Includes organizations involved in furthering historic preservation in Alaska. Organizations may be recognized for a variety of activities undertaken within the past five years, such as: educational programs, events to raise public awareness of preservation, advocacy, publications/media, planning, and the protection of historic buildings and archaeological/historic sites from destruction.

C. Firms and Governmental Agencies

Includes professional firms and governmental agencies whose work has furthered preservation in Alaska. Firms and agencies may be recognized for a variety of projects undertaken within the past 25 years, such as: feasibility studies; planning and survey documents; advocacy; infill design in historic districts; and renovation, restoration, and adaptive use designs.

D. Individuals

Includes individuals who have made a significant contribution to historic preservation in Alaska in the last 25 years. Individuals may represent a variety of disciplines and may be volunteers, grassroots activists, craftsmen, or paid professionals.

E. Historic Advocacy

Sometimes an outstanding project champion should be recognized for organizing both the funding and people into the right places rather than having any specific preservation skills. This person may be a non-professional as well as a professional.
